FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

Hi Everyone

I returned to school this week after a period of leave where I travelled through India and Nepal enjoying the richness of culture that both countries offer. I acknowledge and thank Mrs Wrigley for leading the school during this time and also thank the leadership team and wider staff for their ongoing work at all levels of the school.

Our Foundation (Prep) Year students this week are participating in the swimming program, which follows on from the Year 4 and Year 1 swimming programs. All reports indicate high levels of fun and enjoyment with positive achievement in water safety skills, knowledge, stroke development and technique. Thank you to our staff and in addition I send out a special mention of thanks to all parents who assisted to make this program a success.

Plans are well underway for the 2017 school year and part of this process is to determine our school enrolment. The student enrolment impacts on classrooms, teaching staff, support staff and resource allocation in order to offer the very best in learning. To assist this process and to ensure we have sufficient staff, buildings and facilities in place, we ask families who are leaving the school at the end of the year to contact the office and also if families are yet to enroll or know of families with children who will be enrolling to again contact the office. Your support in this area will be greatly appreciated.

Our transition programs are in full swing with students in the senior school enjoying the many visits and activities with Cranbourne East Secondary College as they prepare to make the next step in their learning journey. Our 2017 Foundation Year students have commenced transition visits and participated in the Early Years Evaluation (EYE). The EYE is a series of assessments based on observations in a play based environment. The EYE assesses children's development in the following areas: awareness of self and environment, social skills, approaches to learning, cognitive skills, language and communication and physical development. This data enables staff and resources to directly support individual students from their very first day of school. The EYE was also a great opportunity to meet and interact with families and enhanced the first transition session as the children were familiar with the school and teachers.

Tuesday is the Melbourne Cup public holiday and the school is closed. Monday is a normal school day and all students are expected to attend school on this day.

Thank you to our Parents Association and Mrs Wrigley for arranging the SIDS Red Bag donations of clothing. This is a wonderful recycling initiative and benefits the school in the form of fundraising.

Please ensure your child is at school on time to commence their learning every day (unless ill) and reads at home on a regular basis to support the learning occurring at school.

Kind regards
Garry & Staff

Negotiating with children:

Tips for negotiating

Start an agreement, not an argument. Phrase your requests so that your child can say 'yes'. Your child will listen more readily if you phrase your idea in a way that appeals to your child's need for control and independence. If you say, 'Would you like to set out the plates or the spoons?' you are more likely to get cooperation than if you say, 'Set the table NOW!'

Get your child involved. If it's getting near bedtime, you might say, 'How many minutes do you think you should have to finish this project and get in bed on time?' If you are discussing discipline, you might ask, 'What do you think would be a reasonable consequence for hitting me?' or '... for not doing your chores?'

Explain your point of view. You could say, 'We have to leave the playground because I have to make dinner'. Once you explain what's on your mind, remain open to any response. If your child says, 'I don't care, I'm not hungry', you might say, 'But I am and so is your brother'.

Know that negotiation doesn't mean giving in. When you negotiate to buy a new car, you're not giving in – you're bargaining. Keep in mind that negotiating is not about winning and losing.

Negotiate issues in age-appropriate ways. If your school-age child doesn't like peas, you might ask, 'What vegetable would you like instead?' If your preschooler is not interested in eating at all, instead of arguing, you might consider playfully cutting a sandwich into interesting shapes to make it more appealing.

Respond to criticism with a reasonable question. If your child tells you to stop nagging about cleaning the bedroom or have a bath, you might say, 'How would you manage this yourself? When would you like to do it?'

Take time to cool down. If your child is making you angry or just plain crazy, go into the other room and calm down before trying to talk. Scott Brown, author of How to negotiate with kids even when you think you shouldn't, suggests that you think about whether an emotional response from you will ease the conflict or dig a deeper hole.

Write down solutions. Writing notes to an older child, such as, 'Clean room at 5 pm', might prompt more cooperation than nagging would.

Let your child win sometimes. Pick your battles wisely and remember that changing your mind does not mean you're losing. You might say, 'OK, I agree with you. But let's make a deal that next time you will listen to me before blowing up'.

Remember, you have the final say. You don't have to reach consensus in any negotiation. Sometimes, somebody just has to make a decision. 'It's perfectly OK for parents to make the final decision, as long as they have heard their children's point of view and tried to be fair', says Brown. 'Children will come to respect that; they may not like it, but they will come to realise that it's fair.'

2017 Booklists

Orders and payment for 2017 Booklists are due by 4.00pm Friday 18th November 2016.

If you are experiencing hardship please contact the school prior to this date to discuss how we can assist you.

Placing an order secures a book pack and essential item supplies for your child for the 2017 school year. If you are thinking of purchasing supplies yourself this must be done in consultation with the school.

All Voluntary Contributions to our Library and Computer Funds are much appreciated. The 2016 donations were used to fund the robotics equipment in the ICT department and fun and engaging books in the Library.

These items were additional to school funded resources and very much enjoyed by students.
